CBA-Jones Day Symposium

Patenting in the Life Sciences and Capital Markets in Hong Kong, China and US

Date: April 20, 2019 (Saturday, 1:30 to 5:00 PM)

Venue: Jones Day Silicon Valley Office, 1755 Embarcadero Road, Palo Alto, CA, 94303

Organizers: CBA and Jones Day

On April 20, 2019, CBA and Jones Day co-hosted a symposium. Over 70 people attended the event. This symposium featured four speakers from Jones Day discussed two topics. Dr. Patricia Campbell and Dr. Bing Liang discussed the role of patents in the discovery, development, and commercialization of lifesaving and life-transforming medicines in China and the U.S. They provided updates on patenting opportunities and challenges, including updates on recent patent law reforms in China aimed at strengthening patent protection, fostering innovation and improving legal frameworks. Mr. Alan Seem and Ms. Chen Ye discussed how capital market changes, particularly FIRRMA and related rules, are expected to impact the biotech industry over the coming months and years. They also discussed the continuing implementation of the pre-revenue biotech listing rules in Hong Kong and some case studies of recent listings in that market.
